Risk Taking Pays Off For Essex One Man Band?

New single from 'Adult Cinema' released September 25th 2020

(Southend-On-Sea, Essex) 22nd September 2020

Adult Cinema is the Southend based band fronted by Mike Weston.

"A winning blend of Meddle-era Pink Floyd, beguiling psych-folk and classic rock riffing. Mike Weston is an accomplished songwriter and musician who deserves a wider audience." Joe Clay (The Times)

On September 25th, the third single from Adult Cinema's third album 'Hot and Cold' is released through Illicit Recordings.

'Have You Ever Flown Across The Sky?' is an energetic, fast-paced uptempo rock song about taking a risk, daring to dream, living life to the full, seeing the world and wondering what else is beyond our planet in space.

As the breadth of experience available to us becomes ever greater, most of us don't explore and are afraid to take any risks. This song invites you to go where adventure might exist and not to worry about what might happen.

The track owes a debt to late 70's rock with the driving guitars recalling Townshend's signature style for the Who and the sweeping synths adding a flavour of Hawkwind. The modern edge to the lyric delivery makes the track uniquely Adult Cinema.

Adult Cinema isn't really a band. It's actually the sound of one man band Mike Weston working as a multi instrumentalist. In the studio he writes, plays and records all the material and then takes on the task of getting it out to the world.

The last couple of years have seen Mike go from working with his hands to applying his skills to building a music career from the ground up. Truly a DIY approach to his music and finding success.

In a former life Mike has been an archetypal (or is that atypical?) Essex builder. Well, more of a craftsman really – an ability to do the sort of bespoke work that's kept him in demand and able to construct a custom recording studio at his home in Southend, not once but twice. And he works in the same way when he writes his songs and perfects the timeless rock sound that he's always chasing.

He's taken those talents and has quietly built a following of tens of thousands around the world who support him avidly. Mike now sells his music direct to his fans from his website and has had many days where he's sold hundreds of albums on CD and vinyl in a day. Most recently, the previous singles from the forthcoming album have racked up tens of thousands of streams on Spotify.

With the beginnings of a streaming following, the new album is a chance to seek out wider media support and to build a wider fanbase.
